The second difference concerns obligation (4:4): if we think that we are justified by our own performance then we believe that God owes us a not guilty verdict, that he must credit our goodness to our account, and accept us because of it; but if we are justified by faith, it is quite obvious that it is a gift, that God does not owe us anything, that he is not obligated to acquit us because we are good. The third difference is that if justification is by works, then only the perfect are ...

B. Romans 4 presents evidence drawn from the Law of Moses, Genesis - Deuteronomy, for the doctrine of justification by grace through faith. This is summarized in 3:21-31. For a Jew, a quote from the writings of Moses had great theological weight, especially relating to Abraham, who was seen as the father of the Jewish nation.

TGC Course | Knowing the Bible: Romans

Paul's primary theme in Romans is the basic gospel, God's plan of salvation and righteousness for all humankind, Jew and Gentile alike (see 1:16-17 and notes). Although justification by faith has been suggested by some as the theme, it would seem that a broader theme states the message of the book more adequately.
